

Home Performance Tech

- Fast growing company
- Great pay with room to build your role

Finding work that has real, meaningful benefits, challenges you, pays well, gives you autonomy & room to work on your own, and also has room for you to grow...that isn't easy.

The company

Revive Energy launched in January 2018. We make building a better home easier, allowing home builders a way to prove the quality of their work, and giving home buyers peace of mind for their massive purchase.

We are on a rapid growth path and need to hire both sales people and technicians.

The job

This job isn't for everyone. There will be minimal supervision. There are minimal rules.

Have integrity. Be devoted to our vision & our customers. Be reliable. Be successful.

Without exaggeration, there is unlimited growth potential here.

In the short term, you will be paid for each job you complete. If you have interest in getting advanced certifications (Building Analyst, Envelop Professional or HERS) we will help you get ready and will be able to immediately put you to work using those new skills.

In the long term, you will be joining a business early on, well before it scales to its full potential or our goals. You will be brought onto the leadership team, and can shape the role & your future.

The job is in the greater Nashville, TN area.

Application process

- E-mail Sean (sean@revive-energy.com) your resume or a 1 page statement on why you're right for this position
- If selected to interview, Sean will send you 3 questions to answer.
- Two interviews, most likely done in one day. You'll talk with Sean & Jon (CEO).
