

BPI Instructor/Proctor

Position Summary

SUNY Ulster seeks to hire a part time as needed BPI Instructor/Proctor.

Examples of Duties

The successful candidate will be expected to do the following:

- Teach BPI Building Analyst and BPI Envelope Professional courses. These courses are credit bearing and non-credit bearing.

Minimum Qualifications

- A bachelor's degree in sustainability or closely-related technology field.
- Teaching experience in an area of energy efficiency.
- Industry experience in an area of energy efficiency.

Desirable Qualifications

- A master's degree in energy efficiency or closely-related technology field.
- A minimum of 30 credit hours of community college teaching experience.
- Experience teaching with Blackboard or comparable online learning management system.

Personal and Professional Qualities

- Excellent interpersonal skills and effective oral and written communication skills.
- An openness to continuing growth, professional development, and the acquisition of appropriate certifications in energy efficiency.
- A strong commitment to the community college goals and objectives of providing quality courses and working effectively and with sensitivity in a multicultural environment with an awareness of, and commitment to, the needs of non-traditional and/or re-entry students having diverse abilities and interests.

Application Process

- Cover letter outlining how you meet the qualifications for this position
- Concise curriculum vitae or resume

- Contact information for three references

Email materials to reerb@sunyulster.edu

We invite you to be part of a dedicated community of learners in an academic department that puts students first. Please go to www.sunyulster.edu for additional campus community information.